With the addition of many new teachers, a few new classes, and an extremely large freshman class, the students welcomed the 2003 school year. The fall season started off with improvements in football and soccer along with the girl's volleyball team winning the MEC and district title. On the sporting scene, things just got better and better throughout the year with many more titles, championships and awards. During Homecoming week, students lived it up with halls covered with everything from jungle vines to snowmen and filled their mornings with activities to get the students pumped up. Even though Homecoming was a hectic week, it all paid off on Saturday when the dance was a blast. Other dances throughout the year lived up to the student's expectations each and every time. For some students, this year would be their last, and for some it was their first, but for everyone, they lived it to the fullest!

Being an individual, becoming your own person in high school, can be a difficult accomplishment. When we started elementary school, everyone was different, but nobody noticed or cared. We were encouraged by our teachers to be what we wanted to be and not like everyone else. Throughout the years, we became aware of name brand clothes and cell phones. It was "cooler" to be like everyone else than it was to be an individual. Friends from grade school were lost in the crowd, yet new ones were found. Finally in high school, it was acceptable to be your own person. For some people, it has taken longer to reach this point of individualism, but everyone will get there eventually.

Live as One

The class of 2003 was one of its own. They stuck together throughout their high school careers accomplishing many tasks. The seniors earned the Homecoming spirit stick for the second time--the first being their sophomore year. Emily Hatten's house was often the meeting place as they worked on Homecoming projects. It was always a week to stay up late every night and spend a huge amount of time with fellow classmates. Many seniors showed great potential and received academic and athletic scholarships to help further their education. The boys basketball team was led by a great group of seniors, including an all-state player. The senior wrestlers proved to be great leaders with one being a state champion. The volleyball team earned a district title with seven seniors who had played together since the seventh grade. The seniors skills were not limited to athletics. Many seniors participated in activities and clubs, including music. Some senior band members did very well at district band, one even earned first chair at state band. One senior choir member earned a superior rating at state contest. All of these awards and honors prove how much talent this senior class possessed. Although they had been together through thick and thin, they dealt with everything well and remained a close knit group.

The juniors had a tough year! A lot of pressure is put on the juniors to perform well in class. They are even allowed to take college courses to get themselves ready for college. College is always on a juniors mind and getting that high score on the ACT.

With college comes money, so for this reason juniors begin to take on jobs with longer hours or maybe even an extra job. Another pressure on juniors is Prom. Juniors sell magazines and work concession stands in order to be eligible for prom. They then join prom committees to make their prom exactly as they dream. As the senior year nears, the juniors are beginning to realize the importance of friendship and hope to continue these bonds after High School.

It's time to step it up... The class of 2005 is no longer the underclassman of the school. They have stepped it up another notch, and everything isn't as easy as it once was. Their obstacles range from dreading the driver's test, to longer and harder practices. But, the sophomores somehow keep their heads high and face the new challenges before them.

"It's better than being a freshman," says Calah Marsh and Khangal Yadamsuren. Josh Rosenbaum adds, "It's better because you can drive to school instead of riding the bus."

Although most freshmen tend to be shy and reserved, it didn't take long for this class of 2006 to find school spirit. They were quick to participate in many extra curricular activities and sports, such as Student Council, FCCLA, volleyball, and basketball, just to name a few. Several freshmen got to contribute their skills to the varsity team. "I think school got better as the year went on, stated Jenna Diven. The freshmen felt more comfortable in their new surroundings as they were treated less like newcomers. During homecoming, the freshmen worked diligently and their hard work paid off when it came time for the judging process. They proved they had what it took and won the float competition. We can expect great things in the years to come from this class of 2006.

Alternative Learning

Still earning the education they deserve are the students that attend the Alternative School. Each student is provided the opportunity to learn a variety of academic skills and receive a lot of attention from the teachers because they all get to know the students on a one to one basis. Through this program, they earn enough credits to graduate on track or maybe even ahead of schedule. Students are offered the option to graduate at semester just like any other high school student can. Some students only attend school part time and then the rest of the day they go straight to work, but still earn the credits they need to finish up the education they will need to graduate. Just because a student has chosen a different path to get their education doesn't mean they aren't doing what is good for them.

The special service students not only do their school work, but they also help out with various activities in the community. Most of the students, such as Kenny Nalle, work around the town to provide service where it is needed.

Every year they attend Special Olympics and most of them come home with not only a few gold medals, but also a smile on their faces. At the Olympics, high school students go to help and cheer the competitors on.

The faculty was composed of seven new teachers in addition to the "veteran" teachers.

The new staff included Mrs. Scheidler, Mrs. Danner, Mrs. Prothero, Mr. Bogle, Mr. Meyers, and Mr.

Michaels. They fit in very well to the our system, and seemed to be enjoying their new school. This year the teachers, old and new, were busy all year long participating in all the activities and sporting events in addition to their regular classroom responsibilities. They proved to be a lot of help and always there to lend a helping hand. Teachers are very respected in this school and are greatly appreciated. A lot of TLC goes into what the teachers do for the students at CHS.

The people who make the school operate on a daily basis are not always the ones who get credit for a successful school year. The janitors, bus drivers, aides, cooks, and secretaries are some of the most important people in the school. These are the individuals that bring us to school, clean up our messes, feed us, and just basically take care of us on a daily basis. Everyone should stop and think about what they do, because without these great people, we would suffer greatly.

Although it may seem that socializing is the only thing students attend school for, it's not. An education is important also. Most students realize that an uneducated life will get them nowhere and, even though they maybe a little embarrassed to admit it, they want to learn and actually want to stay in school. Most students are involved in many things, including work and extra curricular activities, but somehow they manage to find time to keep up with their schoolwork. Students know what is important to them now and in the future and work towards those goals. The student body at CHS is here to not only get through their high school years, but to achieve the goals they have set for their lives.

Live and Learn

Expanding minds and knowing what it takes to achieve the goals to expand futures.

Knowledge Bowl

Full of integrity, competition, dedication, and knowledge, which leads to huge success.

The Academic Bowl team

competed in eleven competitions this season. The varsity team placed first at Peru State and fourth at Platte County. They learned a lot this year and, at the same time, had a blast. "Academic Bowl is both fun and challenging," stated Theron Rodgers when asked what he thought about being on the academic team. The students put in a lot of time and hard work for their team. The varsity practiced from 3:00 to 4:00 everyday after school, and the junior varsity practiced everyday before school. They played in several tournaments and attended conference matches every Tuesday. When asked what he thought about being on the team, Thomas Morgan said, "All the things that we learn in school that we never think that we will learn in our lives, we can use in academic bowl." They ended the season placing second in conference with a 4-1 record. Three seniors led this team to a very successful season with great leadership skills that will be passed on to underclassmen.

Singing Sensation

Chorus member Tah-Tah Edwards sings along with the choir and chorus classes at the Thanksgiving concert.

Something new, Something old, and a whole lot of music.

The start of the year seemed normal with the fall concert that has become a Cameron tradition. But, things took a turn when the St. Joseph Symphony Orchestra asked our very own choir to sing the "Vivaldi Gloria" along with the Missouri Western State College Choir and Savannah High School choir. Although the three choirs and the orchestra only rehearsed once, the individual choirs had been rehearsing for months. The performance took place at the Missouri theater. Next, the choir prepared for district competition. The choir, the Jazz/Chamber choir, and boys glee all received a two. The Girls glee received a three. Four soloists sang their way to state. They were Mallory Bradford, Matt Castillo, Beth Curtis, and Elizabeth Needham. A girls quartet also went to state, consisting of Sarah Barrett, Mallory Bradford, Beth Curtis and Holly Williams. Due to injuries received in a car accident, Matt Castillo was unable to perform at state. We are sure he would have done well.

Choir: First row:

Out in the Real World

Kip Mathena is very friendly to every customer.

The students get out of class to see how it is out in the real world.

Many students work hard

in school, but some work hard out in the real world. Mrs. Williams and Mr. Strange have students getting credit for their hard work at their jobs. Each student must have around twenty hours a week to get their two credits. Some of the occupations these students have are: a bank teller, a waitress, and Country Mart employees, just to name a few. "COE has been a great experience from me, because I would like to go into real estate in the future and it has given me the opportunity to learn about this field." said Kate Farrell. A lot of people look up to these students for the hard work that they do. These are just a few students that let the people of Cameron see how hard the young adults can work. "COE has allowed me to escape the everyday pressures of school, and experience what the real world is like," said Melissa Swanson.

New Tunes

A year rolling on!!!!

The band members had a busy year. "Band has been different this year because we've been working hard to prepare for districts. We have had a gentlemen by the name of Bill Mac come and help improve our playing techniques," quoted junior band member Sarah Carr. This year the band had 2 members place at districts: Joe Clark 1st chair and Jenelle Korneman 2nd chair. Joe later went on to compete in state band and also placed 1st chair at state. His other honors included all-state baritone. The band also added a different kind of fund-raiser this year. They sold items out of magazines and they could earn special gifts if they sold enough items. All in all, this year has been one of the most exciting ones in Cameron history for the members of the CHS band.

Senior Tony Snook and Junior Tim Coolman travel to the beat of the same drum.

The 2002-2003 Cameron Marching Band stands in formation.

Special Events

It's nice to learn something once in a while and have a little fun at the same time.

Many of the students at CHS enjoy some of the special occasions in and out of the classroom. Although teachers were limited to only one field trip each, they managed to make the best of it. FFA and Ecology Club both took a trip to the newly opened Cabella's. FBLA visited Northwest State University in Maryville to take part in a competition made up of a series of tests. Student Council officers went to a state meeting in Liberty, while DECA had their district competition at Metro North. DECA also travelled to the Lake of the Ozarks for state competition and then to Florida for nationals. Some of the in-house occasions included a canned food drive with an ice cream party for the winning seminar and a mock wedding in Marriage and Family class. These are just a few of the special events that students at CHS enjoyed. Although students were gone from class some of the time, that didn't interfere with what they learned.

Ashley Brookshier and the rest of FFA make breakfast for some of the community and the teachers.

Music, Music, Music

For those students who love music, they had a memorable year.

Members of the choir went to district competition in Maryville. Some members did very well at the competition and went on to state. Choir had many other performances including the Thanksgiving concert, the spring and fall concerts, and the Christmas concert. In the winter, the choir was asked to sing with the Missouri Western State College Choir. They traveled to St. Joe for late night practices and a performance at the Missouri Theater. Those interested in the beat of things join the percussion section of the band. Mr. Albright is in charge of the drums, and did a good job leading the percussion ensemble to state contest. Band members also work very hard in the fall to learn how to march and move on the football field. The band has traveled to different towns to perform in parades and on field. All in all, the student in music activities are to be given credit for their hard work. They study hard and keep up with their extra curricular activities.

Playing her heart out, Mrs. Goodwin plays the piano for the choir to keep the notes.

Beth Curtis, senior choir member, sings a solo at a choir concert.

Practical Experience

CHS students get a head start in life by taking Health Occupations, Greenhouse or Mass Media!

Getting skills for life... that's what these students are doing. Whether it's filming your classmates for this week's DNN or taking your first vial of blood, they will be ready when they start their careers. Health Occupations is a class for students who are interested in becoming doctors or nurses or related fields. For the first semester, they rack their brains with tons of information on their field of study, and then, in second semester, they get to apply what they've learned by going around to nursing homes and helping out. Greenhouse is for future green hands. They learn how plants grow and how they could best plant and care for different species of plants and flowers. They spend their time watering flowers and studying flower species. Mass Media Communications is a class directed by Mrs. Farmer. Though the class is quite small with only 7 people, they do the work of twice as many. They began the year by handing out a weekly Dragon Newspaper that they wrote all themselves. In second semester they began to broadcast DNN news every other week.

Working together, Mallory Bradford and Tim Turner get ready to fill up a flat with dirt in the greenhouse.

Putting It Together

Not just building a house, they are building their future

This group of students is a very unique group of young men. They learn skills that will help them later in life if they choose to pursue a career in carpentry. They build the house from ground up. Braving the extreme weather conditions from the very cold days of winter to the very hot days of fall and spring, they dedicate three blocks of a school day to work on the house. From students that know very little about carpentry to experienced students such as Jimmy McClure, these students, along with their teacher, Mr. Vaughn, work together to accomplish a goal they can all be proud of. Working on the house that was built in Eagles Landing Housing Complex, these students become very close friends and share many moments they will remember for the rest of their lives. The students work diligently all year to make sure the house gets finished and done professionally.

Getting it done, Jimmy McClure and Aaron Wood work as a team to put the finishing touches on the ceiling of the house.

Hands On

He may not be a Van Gogh, but Matt Castillo certainly has a lot of talent.

A new fun way of learning, but yet still staying focused.

Many teachers like to stick with the traditional way of teaching by giving notes, homework, and lectures, but there is an alternative way of teaching. That alternate is having labs and letting students get involved with what is being taught, which gives them a much more exciting way to learn. By having labs, students are up and moving around. It keeps them more focused on what they are learning. In Mr. Bishop's class, students dissect a deer head, heart, and some other things. In Mr. Michael's class, students can mix chemicals or make their hair stand on ends with his static ball. Having labs is an easier way of teaching students. In Mrs. Hills' and Mrs. Evans' foreign language classes, students are always playing games to help study and remember the languages easier. As a student, I feel that having labs helps me remember the things we are learning a whole lot easier. What a good deal to have a learning opportunity that is so much fun!

Ewww. Squishy is what Kara Flanders was surely thinking as she touched a real heart in anatomy class.

Organization

On their way home

from the FCCLA regional meeting. Sable Mallen and Mandy Zieber slip in a quick nap.

Katey Jordan works on research for an upcoming NFL debate.

Organizations played such an important role in helping students as well as the community. Many organizations chose to do different activities this year for a change of pace. Student Council did a new fund-raiser called the spirit couch. One lucky winner got to sit on the couch during a boys basketball game and was served pizza and pop. FFA held a blood drive for their community service project, FCCLA handed out compatibility tests to find out what students would make cute couples, and the art club used their artistic talent to decorate cookies for the teachers. Other organizations stuck to their old traditions. NHS held their annual Christmas party with Mrs. Steele's class, as well as their bonfire and hayride. DECA raised money by selling their famous cookies. NFL and FBLA participated in their annual contests. No matter what activity is going on, all organizations include hard work, but students still participate in them to have fun and be involved.

Live it Up!

While some organizations create new activities each year, others prefer to stick with tradition. Either way, it's a great way to stay involved and have fun.

The motto for Stuco is "mooving on" because of the amazing progress this council made.

Mooving On!

Awesome progress was made by Stuco this year. With Stephanie Kemna as president, Kevin Carroll as vice-president, James Tvrdy as treasurer, and Mariah Lipanovich as secretary, the council was in for excellent activities. Plans were laid out for the Homecoming activities during the retreat at Blair Thompson's house. Groups of Stuco members came up with the theme, "Homecoming to the Extreme", as well as dress-up days and morning activities. After the Homecoming hype died down, the spirit of the Student Council bulletin board was brought back to life. This brought on bright decorations for each holiday and seasonal change. Towards the end of January, the Student Council exchange took place with Chillicothe High School. One day twelve Cameron students traveled to Chillicothe and the next day their students came to Cameron to see what it is like to sit in on a Stuco meeting from each school. Both schools agreed that they gained more knowledge and views that could help better each school.

Winter Sports week was kicked off with a door decorating contest and ended with the Spirit Couch, which was placed on the stage reserved for the winner of a raffle in which all proceeds were sent to the Spencer Mattson Fund. The school year finally ended when students participated in playing Singled Out at the Spring Fever Reliever.

The Tradition Continues

National Honor Society is a long-standing organization. It has created and carried on many traditions since the first year of NHS. Some of the traditions include the bonfire and hayride at the beginning of the year, the annual Christmas party, "tapping," and a community service project. The bonfire was held at Kevin Carroll's house. With lots of food and a hayride, a fun time was had by all. "It was a really good time with some of my good friends. We had about 20 packages of hot dogs and only two packages of buns, so we had to make do with what we had. Also, we forgot chocolate for the s'mores, so we just used chocolate chip cookies instead. It was a really fun time," Jamie Bates replied after being asked if she had fun at the bonfire. The annual Christmas party is always celebrated with Mrs. Steele's class. Gifts were given to these students after Christmas cookies were decorated. "Tapping" is a special tradition in which upper class NHS members "kidnap" the younger inductees out of class to announce their initiation. The inductees wear their robes through the halls for laughs. Over 20 new members were "tapped"-this being a large amount. Two seniors, Paul Marsh and Karen Eberly, chose specially to "tap" their sisters, Calah Marsh and Susan Eberly. NHS is an old organization, but is still carried on with fun traditions.

Understanding the world of business is what DECA's about.

Taking Care of Business

The students that make up DECA are enrolled in the Marketing and Business Management classes. DECA is an organization that enhances students understanding of the business world. The students are required to write a lengthy research paper about a local business to take to contest. There are three levels in which they compete: district level, state level, and national level. After qualifying at districts, 28 students attended the state level of competition. State competition was held at the Lodge of Four Seasons at the Lake of the Ozarks. After state competition, five members qualified for nationals. Nationals were held in Orlando, Florida. All five of the competitors at nationals received an award of excellence for completing all their competencies. Along with competition, the members are very busy throughout the whole year. They are constantly doing fund-raising and service projects. They sold candy and cookies. For a service project, they held a canned food drive. All in all, DECA educates business leaders of tomorrow, today.

Meetings, fund-raisers, cancellations, and hard work are part of the future.

The Future Lies Ahead

Future Career and Community Leaders of America started the year off by attending the regional meeting at Liberty. They learned many leadership skills and many different ways to raise money. Having a new sponsor this year, President Mandy Zieber, the vice-president, and the Student Council representative of FCCLA, along with the other officers, had many things expected from them. But some things did not go very well for them, such as the cancelled sweetheart dance. "Everything was decorated and ready to go, but it snowed and everything was cancelled," said Mandy Zieber. It left girls with their hair done, decorations up, and money that was spent because of that awful night. The dance never was able to be rescheduled because other events were going on. A special assembly was called for the royalty to find out who was going to be crowned. Jimmy McClure and Beth Curtis received the honors of being crowned king and queen.

Serving Their Time as Role Models

Helping to educate younger students are the members of FTA. Most members play a good role model to the students over at Parkview while doing their cadet teaching. Not all members of FTA are old enough to cadet teach. Only the juniors and seniors are allowed to go over to the other schools to serve as a teacher's aide to the teachers that they are helping out. Students help the teachers around the classroom in passing things out and answering questions that students may have. Most members of FTA have goals set to one day become a teacher themselves.

Lending a Hand.

Helping out Mrs. Fish are the members of the Epsilon Beta club, better known as the "library aides." Being a member of this club gives a student the opportunity to have more time to study and to get help or advice on the homework they have. It also gives them a chance to have access to the computers that are available in the library. A lot of times Mrs. Fish has to turn students down because so many students request serving as an aide. Each year in Epsilon Beta officers are elected. A president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, and a student council representative are all elected. Each student that is a member does not have to worry about paying dues or attending meetings, it's all about showing up on time for the block that they are scheduled to help Mrs. Fish.

Small, but Mighty

The ART club had a lot of fun doing creative projects for community and school. Their year started with making their entry for the homecoming parade. At Christmas, they made cookies for the teachers at the high school.... a total of fourteen dozen cookies! Talk about a sticky mess! They also helped with the Christmas parade by making signs for the parade entries, a community service project they have been doing for the past twelve years. They had their meeting once a month on Thursdays during seminar. These were run by the officers, Sarah Ussher, Sarah Rogers, Emily Hatten, Jamie Bates, Stephanie Kemna, and Lucas Plymell.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes had a rough time getting everything together to keep the organization afloat. FCA met at least once a week for the first part of school, but, as the year went on, the members were starting to get very involved with sports and other organizations, so they changed the meetings time to once a month. Even though they were not very active, they all felt that they had a good time and hopefully next year's club will be able to be more active.

Science Whiz

Beta Chi Pi is an organization for students who excel in all of their science classes. It challenges them to do their best. Members work through levels (Beta-Chi-Pi) by earning points. They earn points by the grades they make in their science classes, competing in the Chem-a-thon, or doing a research project that competes at the state level. Beta Chi Pi is one of the smallest organizations at CHS because only the best science students are members.

Save the Earth

Ecology Club is an organization where students can learn about how to care for the environment. Led by Miss Cole, members of Ecology Club participated in a number of out of school activities. Some of these include a canoe trip and a visit to Wallace State Park for trail maintenance. Their trip to Wallace counted as their service project for the year. Said Erin Rooney, "It's a good experience to become aware of the environmental concerns in our society." At the meetings, members discuss ways to improve the world we live in and the effects on the environment of such things as polluting and littering. Because there are so many members of Ecology Club, we can be sure that they will be helping to protect our environment for years to come.

The Future Business Leaders of America had a great year. They started out by electing their officers, Kevin Carroll as president, James Tvrdy as vice president, Karen Eberly as secretary, Kate Patterson as treasurer and Sarah Carr as Student Council representative. During the fall as an organization, they sold suckers for a fund-raiser. They raised a lot of money with this. It gave them the opportunity to go to district contest. In March, they travelled to Northwest State University to participate in taking tests for contest. Six of the members did an outstanding job and qualified to go to state. These six were Tim Coolman, Tabitha Assel, Karen Eberly, Megan Hightower, Susan Eberly and Chelsea Strack. State contest was held at Columbia, Missouri, for three days. All six of them had a great time at state even though they did not place.

Good and Exciting Times

The FFA started the year off with summer camp as usual. While there, Cody Sloan got a fishing hook stuck in his ear and had to have it removed. FFA also had their annual Jackpot and Livestock show. The school year started off with the Watermelon Bust. "There was a lot of people and a lot of watermelon," said John Carreno. During homecoming, FFA won first place for the organization float entry. "The float was fun to make," exclaimed Dave Johnson. At the area and district contest, they left with lots of place winners. This year the FFA also had a skating party and a Christmas party. The Christmas party was held at Danielle Dotson's house. Games were played and there was also a gift exchange. The members also hosted a blood drive. The blood drive was a big success for the FFA. Some members of FFA also attended state FFA competition.

DHS/NFL

What a year for Drama Honor Society and Speech and Debate members! These two clubs are in their 2nd official year and are going strong with many more members. The Drama Honor Society started off their year with an outdoor barbecue. They thought it would be a good idea to get together and let everyone get to know each other. The Speech and Debate team performed their best this year. They scored 1,667 points as a team. Speech and Debate also hosted the 2nd annual Speech and Debate tournament. They hosted many schools from around the area and it was very successful. DHS and NFL go hand in hand and many members are in both clubs. Because they go hand in hand, they also had an awards banquet together. They awarded trophies and certificates to those that have earned them. It is usually an eventful time. Friends and family were invited to enjoy the festivities as well.

DHS Night! Friends, family and, of course, DHS members enjoyed an outdoor barbecue to begin the new year.

Putting It All Together

The Graphic Arts Class

has faced many deadlines and many corrections in preparing for the yearbook. The class had a lot of fun and worked very hard on this edition. To help out with yearbook sales, they sold yearbook ads to businesses in the local area. With a small number of people and a large number of pages, each student was responsible for several pages. Included in their jobs were things such as taking and cropping pictures, gathering information, laying out pages and writing stories. Although it was as tough and hectic year, the hard work and time that the students and Mrs. Brizendine put in paid off. When the stress became overwhelming, the class smiled because they knew that it would be worth all the hard work.

Mrs. Gina Hill and Mrs. Stacy Evans had a variety of goals and activities for their foreign language students this year. "The Foreign Language Club is off to a good start and hopefully every year there will be more activities and members," said Mrs. Evans at the beginning of the year. Under the guidance of the sponsors and the newly elected officers, the club began their year of activities. Some of those activities included a game night, where they played French and Spanish games, a cooking night where they cooked many foreign meals, and a Pablo Picasso project. The students also attended a Foreign Language Day in Maryville this fall. Although they couldn't do as many activities as they originally planned, they had a great time and are looking forward to next year.

Several new additions to the Cameron High School coaching staff made 2002-2003 a year to remember. The new coaches brought new ideas and techniques to the CHS athletic programs. The boy's basketball team was as strong and determined as ever and these qualities led them to a victorious season. For the volleyball team, their hard practices and superstitious pre-game dinners paid off when the Lady Dragons won the MEC championship. Although not every sport ended with a winning season, the athletes gave it their all and that's what really counts.

Live on the Edge

With the fierce competition throughout the year, the athletes left the crowd on the edge of their seats.

Great Things to Come

A Strong Foundation

"The MEC is a tough conference, and we play in one of the toughest districts in the state, so it's difficult to let our record show how hard we really play on Friday nights." This is what Senior Jaret Copeman had to say on the Dragon's 4-6 season. The team worked really hard in the off-season in their 7-on-7 passing league and a strong foundation in the weight room to compete with the powerhouses of the MEC conference. As the season unfolded, the Dragons faced many adversities that could have ruined another team's season, but instead they battled through things and ended up with a weekly improvement that pleased everyone. Seth Hane, who was one of the Dragons' biggest weapons this season, had this to say, "We just tried to go out every week and play our hardest, and let things take care of themselves." This season featured many underclassmen stepping up and filling some positions on the varsity level. Young players, and a strong commitment to the weight room, means great things to come in the future for the Cameron football program. Coach Harden enjoyed this season thoroughly, and is also looking forward to the future of the program. "We need to continue our work we've started, and keep improving in the weight room and on the field." He said. Hopefully this season will be a strong building point for future Dragons and will bring Cameron football back to the top and a return to greatness.

United as One

Through combined efforts, the J.V. and freshman team prevailed for a winning season.

There wasn't enough to go around... The junior varsity and freshman teams were forced to play in combined games. When the coaching staff met prior to the season, they discovered there were not enough players to have separate J.V. and freshman teams. The coaches then decided to have the J.V. play the first half and the freshman play the second. This saved quarters for enough players to also contribute in the Friday night varsity games. After the first four games, they decided to give the freshman more time and drop the J.V. games and team. Although the J.V. season was cut short, they got more experience on the field. The combined teams allowed the J.V. players a chance to have more playing time. Coach Bogle stated, "With limited opportunity to practice together as a unit, the players did an excellent job of playing together in the early J.V. games." With a record of 6-2, the Dragons anticipate many more successful seasons.

Touchdown!! Brian McClure speeds past the Moberly defenders to a Dragon victory. Cameron added Moberly to their list of victories.

A Winning Tradition

Dedication and hardwork are traditionally shown by the players who were looked up to from past years.

Showing pride in what they had, the Lady Dragons came out of their season with the honor of not only M.E.C. conference champs, but champions of their district. They started their season off with great confidence. The ladies pulled off their first victory at home against Higginsville. They were very excited and pumped about the games to come. The girls biggest worry was playing Platte County. When the Pirates came to Cameron, the Dragons thumped them with all the power they had. That was the best game the girls played all season. Although the team had to adapt to a new lineup this year, they held together well. They stuck together well as a team and did everything they could to help each other out. There were seven seniors this year who showed great leadership and dignity throughout the whole season. Rolling in something new, Cameron sponsored a varsity volleyball tournament for the first time. The girls took second place in the tournament, but didn't let that hold them down. They moved on to Lexington and came home with a first place trophy. All in all the girls pulled off another great season of victories.

Pulling It Together

Teamwork WINS!

The changing lineup at the start of the season was a large obstacle that the JV team had to overcome. With only nine players on the team, Coach Seifert was always on her toes to find the best rotation for the girls. This made it very difficult for the Lady Dragons to come together and play well as a team. When asked about the hardest part of the season, Lanelle Carroll replied, "It was towards the end because we had more competition in the games and we had more changes in the lineups." They got through the hard times and even had some fun. "I think my favorite time of the season was playing our first game against Higginsville and all three of the teams winning. I think that game gave the coaches and the players confidence of having a winning season," Danielle Dotson said. Even though the start of the season was a little rough, the team ended with a winning season. They learned a lot from Coach Seifert and got a lot of playing experience.

Learning to

Play Determination and Hardwork is the key!

Hard work and a strong will

to continue the long-running Lady Dragon success is what helped the freshmen volleyball team have quite the season. 15-6-2 was their record. They were faced with many adversities such as the setter Kelsey Breckenridge breaking her finger and all around player Kelsey Workman spraining her ankle at the start of the season. "I realized after I had broken my finger that I wasn't in junior high anymore, and I had to step up and continue to play because that's the difference between high school and junior high sports," Kelsey Breckenridge replied when asked what she thought the hardest part was when she broke her finger. Coach Fish said, "As always, the 9th graders took a while to adjust to our way of doing things, but once they caught on, improvement came quickly. I was proud of the effort they put forth and their accomplishments. They will be a good addition to the coming year's Lady Dragon Volleyball tradition." Sophia Long said, "I was more nervous of the competition and that high school volleyball would be a lot more advanced than middle school volleyball," when asked what she expected when she began on the high school level.

Making the Goal

Working together to get the winning goal is what the boys did this season.

In life, soccer players have to make decisions such as when to pass the ball and to whom. Unlike in life, their coach and teammates scream their decisions for them, but you can't hurt their spirit. "Overall, the season went well. We overcame many personal and team goals. Although our performances on the field didn't turn out as we had hoped, I still feel the season was very successful," said James Tvrdy. The boy's soccer season could have been better, but they sure tried their best. They had some very tough competition from rival schools. "We did good, it just doesn't show on the field. We have improved a lot since last year, but the 'bad' teams have also improved," said Damen Webster.

What a Wonderful Year

The girls tennis teams were one of the best teams Cameron has had in the past few years.

“This year finished the way we wanted it to. The girls played their hearts out every single match and never gave up,” explained head coach Lanny Wake. The girls played many tough matches such as Central, Benton, Platte County, Savannah, and, one of their toughest matches of the season, Chillicothe. The girls played hard at districts, but coming from one of the toughest conferences, the MEC, they only had one tennis player advance to the state tournament. “I had a really fun time this year and had a great season with a lot of victories. I’m really looking forward to next season and the matches that await me,” quoted Jennifer Salmon. The girls tennis team would like to thank everybody for coming out and supporting them at all their matches and tournaments.

Batter Up

Victory visits the Lady Dragons. Their hardwork and training pays off.

The girls were ready to play ball with head coach Rod Thomas and assistant coach Doug Michael up to bat. Finishing the season out with one win, hope was building for an even better season next year. There were 12 players at the beginning of the season. The number reduced to 11 after an injury. Coach Thomas said, "I really think this was a building year. This was my first year as head coach. We can only get better. This year we only had one win, next year it will be five, and maybe ten (wins) the year after that." Megan Hightower was the only senior this year. She was a catcher and has played softball all four years of high school. They had a very young team, so there is a lot of room for improvement. Sophomore Lacey Clark said, "Instead of running all the time, we focused on infield and batting more than we did last year. It's going to take a lot to come back from losing for the past couple of years." The girls seem to be gaining faith and potential for the years to come.

Up To Par

The golf girls reaped the rewards of hard work after a long season of uncertainty.

Fore! No four. That's how many players were needed for the girls of golf to form a team. Unfortunately, Ame Crouch, Holly Williams, and Ashley Kipp fell one person short of this goal. They didn't let that discourage them though, and they continued to compete individually throughout the season. By a stroke of luck, Hollie Mohi joined mid-season and became the much needed fourth player, but before she could compete she was required to attend ten practices. So, day in and day out, she practiced while the other girls continued to compete. Pushed to the max, the girls learned to destress with the help of Coach Nichols and the sing-along show tunes on their long bus rides. Before the season ended, these girls were rewarded with a victory as a team. This year was a true test for the individuals, but they responded full with doubled efforts. Joined together these girls became an unstoppable force.

Nothing to Lose

They've got what it takes!!

Having what it takes is what this sport is all about. The Cameron Dragon wrestlers had it all with the addition of some freshmen wrestlers on the team. It looked like they would have a tough enough team to make some noise this year. With the addition of the Kearney Tournament, the schedule looked harder than it has in the past. With a few minor injuries throughout the year, nothing could keep the Dragons spirit down. With six state qualifiers, the Dragons were pumped and ready for the trip to Columbia. The Dragons went down to take care of some business is how Head Coach Lanny Wake would put it. And Cale Griffin was on a mission to capture his third undefeated state title. The Dragons placed 7th at state and placed 4 out of the 6 wrestlers: Jake Bates- 4th (103lbs), Tyler Krentz-6th (125lbs), Cale Griffin-1st (140lbs), and Jimmy McClure-5th (171).

Doing Good and Having Fun

Being a team
and playing hard

Even though the team did not end the season with a winning record, the season was considered a success on a different level. "These girls went from feeling like they couldn't win and not having fun to knowing they could win and have fun. If nothing else happened this season, I considered that a success," said Coach Wimberly. Coach Wimberly, also referred to as Krista Wimberly, was the new head coach for the girls this season. Some people, who were loyal fans to the team, had a little to say about them. "Their record might have improved, but they worked a lot harder this year," commented Mitch Girres. Other fans said that at least the team tried and they looked like a team. A losing record is hard on any team, but this team should not have had a losing record. "They had some exceptional talent, but they were not able to pull it all together," said Caitlin Cole. To leave the team with a positive thought, many fans from both the girls' and the boys' basketball team had this to say about the girls, "They could have beat Tarkio Academy!"

Getting Off to a Good Start

The girls finished the season with their heads held high.

This years JV team was different from those in the past here at CHS. The girls had two coaches this year. They were Cheri Cole and Jeff Meyers. The JV team was joined by the freshmen, because this year there was no freshmen team. The team played well this season. They got first place in the Richmond tournament and, even though they didn't win as many games as they had hoped, they gave their best effort and played hard the whole season. The team had to do a lot of adjusting because many of them stepped their game up a few notches and played on the varsity team. Ashley Jackson said, "We tried our best and we had fun this season."

High Expectations

An unforgettable trip

The varsity basketball team was bound for success before the season even started. This was partially due to the high standards set by the community, and because the Dragon's starting five were all seniors and had been playing together since they were children. The first trial of the season came when the Dragons faced nationally ranked Kickapoo in the championship game of the William Jewell Tournament. Although the game ended in defeat, the Dragons proved they were a force to be reckoned with. After placing third in the Kearney Invitational, the Dragons won the Cameron Tournament for the fourth time in the senior's four year career. After winning a share of the conference title, the Dragons took the district title in convincing fashion as they didn't have a game within fifteen points the whole tournament. Unfortunately, the season ended with an upset defeat as the Dragons fell to Lafayette County at the St. Joe Civic Arena in the state sectional game. Even though the season might not have ended up as some would have hoped, the 2002-2003 squad will go down as one of the best teams in school history.

These guys gave it their all!

The boys JV basketball team had a good year. They have some big shoes to fill considering all the varsity starters were seniors. Most of the team had been playing together starting at a young age and have been ever since then. They had many tough opponents such as Platte County, Chillicothe, Maryville, along with many other competitive teams. They played well together with many close games ending with either a win or a loss by just a few points. Many of the parents of the players felt that they played with a lot of heart and determination. Even though the team does not get much spot light or have many fans to come out and watch them, they continued to play with a lot of dedication. This team played for the love of the game and they came out with all heart to give it their all out effort.

Freshman Eric Anderson

This group of boys are getting ready for their high school journey.

The first year in high school sports is sometimes a rough one, but for this bunch team it started off great. Despite the size of this team, they won some games and they turned a few heads while getting prepared for their varsity years. They may have been drilled on during practice by the varsity, but in turn they gained respect and knowledge of the game. During practice they gave it their all and left nothing out on the floor. This team was already growing and getting very mature, they will be able to assume the roles of the peers on the Cameron High School varsity basketball team. One could see it in their eyes that they were willing to put out everything in every single minute of every game this season.

Jump High

Jump high and reach for the stars.

Graduation always makes it difficult for a squad to rebuild the following year. This was true for both the football and wrestling cheerleaders since both squads lost girls. Thanks to summer camp and dedication from the girls, both squads did a wonderful job. The four freshmen wrestling cheerleaders pulled through to make this a good year not only for themselves, but for the wrestlers as well. Wrestler Tyler Krentz said, "They did very well for their first year." The football squad also had a new sponsor, Gina Hill.

Cheer Loud

The cheerleaders are the ones with all the spirit to pump up the players.

They've got spirit! The girls who cheer always stand behind their teams until the very end. Their job is to pump up the teams and crowd, even if the team is losing. It takes a lot of determination and hard, long practice to become a cheerleader. These girls did what it took to do just that. The boy's basketball squad started off with a bang. With three new additions to the squad, the girls worked hard at late night practices to perfect every move. At the summer camp, the squad combined of football and boy's basketball cheerleaders won the title of 'Top Banana.' They were awarded a blow up banana and a trophy for their hard work. The girl's basketball squad started the year off rough. They had five new additions to their squad. "It was tough working with five new girls, especially when this is just my second year cheering," said Ame Crouch, captain of the girl's basketball squad. By the end of the season, the squad was doing very well. Learning to work together for the team is hard in the beginning, but these girls put differences aside and cheered their hearts out.

Just Bust a Move

Dancing with enthusiasm, spirit, and smiles throughout the yearlong season.

The Pom girls started the year off right

while at pom camp in Maryville with three girls receiving All-Star awards, and the squad receiving a blue ribbon on the team routine. With only two seniors and a new pom sponsor, Kalen Prothero, a lot was expected from the underclassman. The juniors had to step it up and teach the six new pom members as much as they could before the football season started. But, football went by fast for the girls and then they were ready to flash their smiles on the floor. A special pom girl was added for a girl's basketball game to perform "Ride the Train". It was Brooke Leitterman's wish to perform with the girls before she went in for chemo treatments and they made her wish come true. Kalen's mother and grandmother made her a true pom outfit to make the final touches. For the sixteenth consecutive year, the girls performed at state basketball with their new routine, "Respect". "I am very proud of how well the girls worked together and made my first year very welcoming," said Kalen Prothero.

Kickin' it

Keeping the ball on the other end was a challenge for the girls this year.

As their second year came to an end, the girls didn't do too badly. It was said early in the season by Coach Harrison, "There is a lot of heart in the team this year. I feel that we will have a great season ahead." And that is exactly what Mr. Harrison got. This year there were 36 girls that went out for soccer. That was more than enough to fill both teams. "We have seen a lot of new faces this year. With a lot of new faces come a lot of questions, but they all are doing very well for their first or second year," said Coach Harrison. The girls had a tough year since they competed against some really good teams. Even though the girls didn't have the luck that they had last year at winning games, they still pulled together as a team and gave it all their best. With the season behind them, the girls were able focus on what they needed to improve and how to fix the problems that they had on the field. Throughout the season the girls got to know one another and gained some new friends and experience.

Can she get it? That's what everyone must be thinking as Susan Eberly runs to save the ball from Platte County.

A Surprisingly

Successful Season

As the Dragons season unfolded they surprised many people, including themselves.

The boys tennis team thought this year was to be a rebuilding one, but it turned out that they didn't rebuild. They actually reloaded. The team lost four seniors off their varsity squad last year, and they were a little unsure on how the season would turn out. They won 8 duals, while only losing 4. The team also finished second in their conference, and second in the annual Benton/Savannah Tournament. A lot of the success was due to junior Tim Coolman and senior Alex Cole, both of whom had a great deal of experience playing varsity tennis since their freshman season. "I had a great time this season. None of us really knew what this season had in store for us, but it turned out pretty good, and we were very pleased." said Alex Cole on the season. A number of other players also stepped up to contribute including Alan and Erik Schrader, Brandon Reffitt, Ty Beckett, and senior John Files. This year just proved to all the players and everyone in the community that this program is on the right track and is also destined for future success.

A small crowd of players sit and watch with anticipation for their turn.

Demonstrating why he became a strong force for the team this year, Alan Schrader nails a great serve in a win for the Dragons.

Hard Work

Dedication and effort pay off, not in wins, but from the satisfaction within.

“Eager to go, we started the season with a fresh slate, ready to prove people wrong. Although we might not have won them all, I guarantee everyone on the team sure as heck had some fun along the way.” This is what senior Seth Hane had to say following the Dragons 03’ season. This was apparent by the squad’s “never quit” attitude as they proved the community wrong time after time. A true example of this was the Dragons home game against arch rival Chillicothe. With Cameron down 8-10 in the bottom of the seventh, with two men on, first year starter Mitch Burton stepped up to bat and blasted a three-run dinger that ended the game in dramatic fashion with a Cameron victory. Senior pitcher Ryan Murphy stated that this year’s team may not have had the talent of years past, but what they lacked in the talent aspect of things, they made up in hard work and desire. With the MEC being one the most competitive conferences in the state, Coach Anderson and the Dragon baseball squad will continue to work hard and try to improve on their skills to pay the bills.

Perfect form is displayed by Seth Hane, as he prepares to put the smack down on a base knock.

Blake Seifert, better known as "Wilda", gets in the zone, as he warms up in the on deck circle.

Drew Newhart gets mentally prepared to pitch the next inning during a wet, dreary home game.

Hitting the Links

The Cameron linksters were posed to make a run at state.

The Dragon golf team came into the season with two returning state qualifiers and a team that was looking to make a run at the conference and district titles. The Dragons were a very experienced team, but also had many young golfers developing. The Dragons were led by Mitch Girres and Shawn Fallein, who both qualified for state competition last year, but were both wanting more. "I think I can speak for both Mitch and me when I say we are not satisfied with just qualifying for state," Fallein said. The Dragons also had Paul Marsh, who in his third varsity season, gave the team valuable varsity experience. The Dragons rounded out the lineup with freshmen Eric Anderson and Aaron Hatten. Scott Love, who had played baseball his first three years of high school, went out this year and played well in varsity competition. The Dragons came up finishing strong at the end of the year by finishing 3rd at the conference meet and Mitch Girres taking 5th as an individual. The Dragons were able to qualify for state as a team by finishing 2nd at districts. They were able to out last the wind and the rain and beat Trenton by 1 stroke. The Dragons placed 7th as a team at state and Mitch Girres tied for 13th place as an individual.

Intensity Wins

Runnin' fast, jumpin' high, throwin' far...that's how it's done!

With only four seniors, the track team didn't have much to show for leadership, but the returning upperclassman stepped up their game and showed true leadership aspects. Although the boys team was short in numbers, they still showed to be strong. With members that can do most anything, they gave competition a run for their money. Even in the weight man relay at the Irish Relays, our throwers showed that they could do much more than throw. The only non-thrower of the group was Jason McDaniel. He was also the smallest of the group. The girls team proved to be strong in nearly every event with great relay teams and strong individuals. This season, just like the last, the team was graced with the presence of the "Carroll Connection" consisting of cousins Kevin Carroll and Lanelle Carroll. The two both ran the 300 meter hurdles. Another inside joke belonged to the pole vaulters who each named their poles. They were each excited about participating in pole vaulting for it was the first time in many years that the Cameron track team has had pole vaulting.

Right on the heels of the leaders is senior Robert Graham during the 800 meter run.

Waking up late, Lucas Plymell shows up at school with a bad hair day.

Playing Dress up, Kelsey Wood and Samatha Walker get ready for the play teasers.

Great Smile! You can tell that Amber Smith loves being in STUCO.

Student Life

Katie Lowenstein

and Kevin Carroll try to stay warm at the annual NHS bonfire.

Barnwarming queen

Ame Crouch, wins the pass the lifesaver game with the help of her teammates.

Students lived this year to the fullest. Many took part in activities like barnwarming, spring fever reliever, and dances, just to name a few. Dancing and games such as "pass the lifesaver" were taken part in at barnwarming. Spirit was present in the fall play, "The Hood", which was fashioned after "Robin Hood." Students were also involved in academic bowl, debate, or other clubs and competitions. Like usual, there was plenty of participation during homecoming week. With a theme like "Homecoming to the Extremes," dress-up days were modeled after certain climates. A video jockey was at the homecoming dance, which was new and exciting to those in attendance. Activities such as these brought the student body together throughout the year to "live big."

Live out Loud!

From clubs to plays to singing and cheering, students were involved in activities that kept them living out loud.

Students were in full spirit for anything that came their direction. The notorious crazies could be seen in full costume numerous times throughout the year. Gorillas, referees, tight spandex pants, guys in long, fur coats, and many other intriguing outfits could be seen in the crazies student section.

As it usually is, spirit was at its highest peak during homecoming week. The competitions were a tight race between classes. Instead of seniors winning most of the competitions like in years past, the winners were divided up among three classes, meaning more students were getting into the homecoming spirit.

Students and faculty made many generous donations for worthy causes, such as giving blood, which was sponsored by the FFA. Student council sponsored events to get students more aware of winter sports. They included a spirit couch, door decorating, and a quiz over past winter sports.

It is through all of these activities and many others that bring the student body closer together to let their school spirit shine through.

Better Than Ever!

Between the crazies, homecoming, and good causes, spirit was better than ever.

I did it! Brooke Leitteman is all smiles after performing with the pom-pom girls. Those that saw the performance thought she did a great job.

Who can guzzle a can of root beer the fastest? Adam Earley can against Eric Anderson, Josh Rosenbaum, and Heath Henry.

Turn up the volume! Joe Stretch, Alan Schrader, Logan Thompson, Tim Coolman, Brandon Reffitt, and John Burke play warm-up music for the basketball game, and really get the players, students, and fans pumped up for the game.

Christmas tree...

Student council member Tim Blackwell gets into the Christmas spirit by decorating the tree.

These guys must have a lot of school spirit to dress like that. Kevin Carroll, Lucas Plymell, and Cale Griffin are "contestants" in the senior's homecoming skit.

Go, fight, win! After an inspiring bonfire speech, Jeff Murphy has the team huddle up the night before their big game.

The crazies are in full swing for the volleyball districts held in their own house. With their support, the girls captured the district title.

Is this attire the next big fashion trend? Elizabeth Needham and Mandy Zieber play dress-up in french class while learning the french names for clothing items.

Homecoming to the Extreme... It's a Climate thing. Every class had their own climate region on which to base their decorations. Seniors had the jungle with hallways decorated to the max with vines, trees, and flowers.

The juniors had an under the sea theme, but due to the fear of disqualification for changing the rocks at CMS, there was a lack of decorations for part of the week. Despite these obstacles, the juniors still pulled through with a victory in the skit competition with Tah-Tah Edwards rapping about school spirit. The sophomore theme was the icy tundra, complete with igloos and snowflakes throughout their hall. The freshmen theme was based on the dusty desert. They won the float competition with a dragon that blew smoke at a tumble weed.

A cold drizzly rain almost put a delay on the bonfire festivities. Luckily, the rain stopped just in time for them to begin. After the skits, Jeff Murphy took the microphone and gave an enthusiastic speech. Due to clamp wood, there were difficulties starting the fire, but the firefighters came to the rescue with flairs and gasoline. Although the Dragons didn't win Friday nights game, their spirit never burnt out.

Extreme Climate Change

Homecoming was "extremely" packed with excitement due to the week's high spirits.

Queen candidate April Reece participates in the morning activity.

Senior guys proudly stand on top of their creation Thursday afternoon before they set it on fire.

Early morning decorations are a must during the week. The sophomores came early to decorate their hallway in artc decorations.

Uniting to light their torches, the senior boys let their spirit burn.

During the senior skit, Lucas Plymell tries to steal the crowds hearts while competing in the Miss Jungle Pageant.

The pep talk given by Jeff Murphy was just enough to get the boys pumped up. It showed in the game ending with a close score of 13 to 16.

A Homecoming to the Extreme- and that's exactly what it was. With such a broad theme, the setting on the stage was fun and colorful.

For the first time ever, soccer players were asked to help in the selection process of the attendants.

This proved to work out effectively and is now considered a great new tradition to homecoming.

Introductions were made and Nichole Shepherd was crowned Homecoming Queen. She had much to say about this exhilarating event. "I was so nervous and excited at the same time. After a stressful day, I couldn't believe I was crowned!"

"I had an easy time choosing my escorts, Jimmy McClure and Luke Lowenstein, because we grew up together and have always been great friends," she stated after being asked about her escorts.

Brad Bray, the guest speaker, inspired the whole football team with his speech about never giving up. He shared memories from his whole football career and urged the team to try their hardest no matter what.

Extreme Royalty

With a theme like "Extreme" it's sure to be an exciting experience.

The attendants relax for a moment to pose for a picture in the middle of their stressful day.

Vincent Green is along for the ride with Nichole Shepherd and her escorts, Luke Lowenstein and Jimmy McClure.

Kate Farrell was selected as a senior candidate. She is escorted by Ryan Murphy.

April Reece, senior candidate, is escorted by Trent Shupe.

Homecoming Queen, Nichole Shepherd is escorted by long time friend Jimmy McClure.

Once again, the classes came together for the dance after a week of competition. The V.J. was from Music Video To Go in Kansas and he made things fun and entertaining by having a 12 by 16 foot video screen that played music videos and showed people dancing. There were also neon lights, bubbles, and confetti. Every once in a while, students faces were frozen on the screen. While this was embarrassing to those who were caught on the screen, it was somewhat amusing to everyone else. "Students stayed at the dance longer than they have in a long time," according to Mrs. Brizendine. She and many students were pleased with how the night went and that the video screen made the dance unique.

Dancing to the Extreme

Beth Curtis and Blake Hahn look as though they are enjoying their evening at the dance.

After a stressful week, Holly Williams and her date, Mitch Burton, enjoy a carefree evening.

Mariah Murdock and Stephanie Kemna show their wild side as they dance the night away.

Nichole Shepherd, homecoming queen, and her date take time out for the traditional dance.

Joey Sugden and Ashley Kirk experience a dance surrounded by bubbles.

The Big Vote

CHS students cast their votes for the annual Mystic Elections.

Receiving the votes for "Most Outstanding Athletes" are Tim Blackwell and April Reece.

As a traditional event, students get the chance to go to the polls and vote for Mystic elections. This year's voting went without a hitch as usual. The seniors had such individual personalities the decisions were easy to make. Mystic elections gave students of all ages the opportunity to display their different personalities. There are many different categories to choose from including the newly added, "Craziest Cameron Crazy". Every year the Graphic Arts class picks the categories and the students vote on who fits best in each category. After the votes are in, the Graphic Arts class then tallies them up. This year two brother and sister pairs, Alex Cole and Cailtin Cole and Mac Mohi and Hollie Mohi, were voted to become part of the Mystic election family.

"Most Ambitious" Kevin Carroll and Karen Eberly look to the future with open minds.

"Most Stressed Out" Kevin Carroll has a nervous breakdown as Most Laid Back Lucas Plymell, relaxes in his usual position.

Flashing their smiles are: "First Rate Freshmen" Hollie Mohi and Drew Newhart; "Supreme Sophomores" Caitlin Cole and Mac Mohi; "Jammin' Juniors" Mariah Murdock and James Tvrdy; and "Snazzy Seniors" Jamie Bates and Alex Cole.

Kelly Eads shows his spirit as he was titled the "Craziest Cameron Crazy".

Best Guy Friends Tim Blackwell and Cale Griffin flash their "friendly" smiles.

Best Girl Friends Cassie Pope and Angie Kanan prove they will be freinds forever.

Mystic Royalty is a long standing tradition. Every year, the Graphic Arts class works diligently as they hand out, collect, and tally all of the ballots. Being selected for the Mystic is always an honor because the whole student body makes the selections. Sophomore attendant, Caitlin Cole, was very excited about being selected. "I was over-zealous, not only because I was selected, but also because Mac was chosen as well.

We have been very good friends for a long time and it was wonderful to share such an event with him," Caitlin stated about her overall experience as Mystic Royalty. Emily Hatten and Jimmy McClure were selected as Mystic Queen and King. This is Jimmy's first year receiving royalty, but Emily has been selected as royalty for two consecutive years. Getting the King and Queen's picture taken together proved to be quite a task. Both Jimmy and Emily are involved in many things. Finding a time to take a photo was nearly impossible. When asked about her involvement in Graphic Arts, Emily said, "Being yearbook editor my senior year has really allowed me to realize how important this award really is. The whole experience has been very fun and such an honor."

Always an Honor

The whole student body votes on Mystic Royalty which makes the royalty titles such an honor.

Senior state wrestlers, Cale Griffin and Jimmy McClure, are recognized at an assembly. Jimmy is involved in wrestling as well as two other other sports.

Preparing for the play, Emily Hatten, Michael Curtis, and Roth Mallen get show off their costumes. Emily has participated in a the fall play every year since she was a freshman.

Drew Newhart and Hollie Mohi were voted as freshman royalty.

Emily Hatten, daughter of Rick and Lee Ann Hatten, was voted Mystic Queen. Jimmy McClure, son of Ron and Robin McClure, was voted Mystic King. When asked what her feelings were after being selected Queen, Emily replied, "After participating in Graphic Arts for two years, I know how special it is to have the title of Mystic Queen."

The Cameron Country Mart proudly congratulates the Mystic Royalty

Mac Mohi and Caitlin Cole were the sophomores selected as Mystic Royalty.

Zack Emmett and Sarah Carr were selected as Junior Royalty. Student Life Mystic Royalty

The fall play brought in some new faces, including a new drama instructor, and new freshman. Drama instructor, Becky Curtis, chose the play "Hood", a two-act play about the familiar fairy tale hero Robin Hood.

Playing Robin was junior Tracy Ellington and along his side was Maid Marion, played by senior Beth Curtis. This play involved a lot of people to make it what it was. Many people from the community were brought in to be in the play, as well as about 20 little brothers and sisters of the actors to play the outlaw children. The musical included its own soundtrack with original songs and dances. There was even a new age twist to this old classic, a song and dance number by Robyn Patti, Ashley Robertson and Alissa Emmett. The girls wore flashy clothes and had blue punk hair. Even though there were late rehearsals and forgotten lines, they finally pulled it together in the end and had a flawless opening night. Plays really bring people together and one could see that in their on-stage chemistry. The actors went on stage and they did something challenging and were proud of it when it was all over. As Becky Curtis' first effort as drama instructor came to a close, her hard work and determination showed opening night when the seats were full of applauding fans.

'Barnwarming

was an extremely great time," said President Ame Crouch. The FFA members did not hold the traditional activities that are usually held. Some of the new activities were "pass the lifesaver", won by Amber Anderson and Francesca Wedlock; the "bottle-nipple sucking contest", won by Joe Tvrdy; the "lawn mower pull", won by Anthony Miles; and also "limbo", won by James Tvrdy. After talking with some of the members who attended barnwarming, they said they enjoyed the new activities, even though there was a little controversy about Joe Tvrdy cheating in the bottle-nipple sucking contest. "There was a lot of dancing and the D.J. was pretty cool," said James Tvrdy. Another event that took place was an enjoyable hayride that went through town and continued into the country. When the night finally came to an end, there were a lot of positive opinions about all the changes that were made.

On the last day of school everyone runs out thinking they have three months to relax, but that isn't true for everyone. Camps take up a lot of many students' summer with some people leaving one camp early to go to the next. At MU volleyball camp, the team placed in the top ten out of sixty teams. The cheerleaders won the "Go Bananas" award (cheering/spirit) at cheer camp. Jenelle Komeman said, "Cheer camp was more mentally exhausting than physically because you had to learn so many things." For FFA camp, members went to the Lake of the Ozarks for state leadership awards. While there, Corey Stuedle hooked Cody Sloan in the back of his ear with a three-hooked fishing lure, and then had to go to the hospital located at the Ozarks. Football started early for the boys and they worked hard to get ready. "We are a lot better team this year and we worked hard for it," said Blake Seifert. Three of the four pom girls that tried out for the All American award received it. Jamie Bates, Jennifer Salmon, and Britni Edwards worked hard to get this award and had to learn an extra dance to compete. The Student Council went to Fulton for camp and they really enjoyed the dance they attended while there. "Basketball camp was a big change from last year and it was a change for the better," says Kristi Ensign. For the first year, the girls basketball team attended MWSC.

Hangin' Around... Student Council officers, Kevin Carroll, Stephanie Kemna, Mariah Lipanovich, and James Tvrdy, are ready for the new year.

All the attendants anxiously awaited the ceremony backstage of the gym. One could tell from their looks that many of them were very nervous. In the meantime, before the festivities began, Student Council sponsored a fundraiser for Spencer Mattson to help with his medical expenses. Spencer drew a name to see who would win the honor of sitting on the Spirit Couch and receive pizza while watching the varsity game. Amanda Silva was the lucky one that night and was joined by a few of her friends. When the last JV buzzer sounded, the royalty took the floor with pride. As each member of the court was announced, the crowd cheered, anxiously awaiting the announcement of who the king and queen of 2003 would be. Student Council President Stephanie Kemna had the honor of crowning the king. The king, Cale Griffin, then crowned Amber Smith as the 2003 winter sports queen. Amber said, "Knowing that the whole student body voted, I feel this is a great honor and it's very special to me," after being selected as the winter sports queen.

School may be over at 2:40, but many students have things to do after hours.

After Hours

Students are currently employed at over 54 places in and around Cameron. Some students are even self-employed. There is a very broad range of jobs that vary from fast food to doctor's offices, from banks to construction. There are even some people who try to manage school, sports, and two jobs. The majority of the student body participated in a survey about their lives outside of school. The seniors and juniors both have an equal number of people working. When students were asked why they work, how long they have been working, how many hours they work on a weekly basis, and the latest they have ever been asked to stay, the responses were: 39% work for spending money; 68% have been working for one to two years; 49% work for more than 15 hours a week; 28% have been asked to stay at work until 12:00 a.m.

After months of hard work and practice, things finally paid off for the cast and crew of "Rebel Without A Cause." The setting was an American town in 1959. The play was about a guy named Jim (Shane Hasbrouck) that had just moved to a new town. He and his parents moved because Jim had gotten into trouble in his old town. On his first day of school Jim met Judy (Amanda Silva) and Plato (Damen Webster), whom he became friends with. Judy's boyfriend, Buzz (Lucas Plymell), challenged Jim to a chicken run, which is racing stolen cars off a cliff. The first person to jump out of their car before going off the edge is declared chicken. Buzz didn't jump out soon enough and ended up dying. After his death, Buzz's gang spent the rest of the play trying to hunt Jim down.

Spring fever events began with Monday as Get Up and Go Day (pajamas). Tuesday was labeled Parkview Day, encouraging students to dress like they did when they were young. Students wore red, white, and blue, along with warm fuzzies on Wednesday for Patriotic Day. The main event, "Singled Out" was based off the show on MTV in the '90s. The hosts were Alex Cole and Jenelle Korneman, and the contestants were Tim Blackwell and Kristi Ensign. Kristi turned away the guys that were short, liked alternative/rock music, and that were in school for college prep. This left about ten guys who got the chance to impress the crowd by making animal sounds, doing push-ups, and dancing around in a tutu. Kristi dumped all but three. They then had to answer questions based on how they thought Kristi would have answered them. It was a close race, but Lucas Plymell was the winner in the guys' competition. When it was Tim's turn, he chose girls that were tall and in school for college prep. The girls had to impress the crowd with cheers, comebacks to Tim's ex-girlfriend, and singing in the shower. After Tim chose the three to keep, he soon picked Alissa Emmett.

You in or out?

Singled Out was a great event because it gave everyone a chance to get in on the fun.

Alex Cole questions the contestants while Jenelle Korneman and the audience waits for the answers.

Singled Out contestants Kristi Ensign and Tim Blackwell enjoy some time on the couch with the winners before going back to class.

Lucas Plymell woos the crowd by showing that he can still dance like a party boy even if he is in a ballerina's tutu.

Surprise!! Tim Blackwell,

happy to find out who has won, embraces Alissa Emmett with a hug.

Build me up buttercup!!

Cassandra Clements really wows the audience with her version of the song. She impressed them so much that she went on to the next round.

1, 2, 3, 4... Zach Lowenstein

must do as many push-ups as he can in fifteen seconds. He finished with fifteen, but that wasn't enough to impress Kristi because she dumped him soon after.

One down, only 399 to go. During a student council meeting, seniors Tim Blackwell and Lucas Plymell work together to make warm fuzzies. Student council made about 400 warm fuzzies for spring fever.

Preparations for this year's prom began in February by the junior class. The class of 1979 gave inspiration for the prom theme, "Stairway to Heaven". This occurred after many of the members of the junior class talked to their parents who had used the very same theme for their prom and were more than happy to pass down their ideas. This theme proved to be wonderful because it opened up many creative doors as far as table decorations and picture backdrops. After students were done getting spruced up and parents were done snapping pictures, they headed over to the Moila Shrine Temple in St. Joseph where prom was held. The D.J. was sent from Mix 93.3 and proved to be a definite hit as students and even a few teachers got down to the music. So when all of the punch and the hors d'oeuvres had been consumed and twelve a.m. finally rolled around, the prom goers left the party. The junior class Vice President, Mandy Zeiber stated, "After all the work we put into the evening, I think prom was an over all exciting time!" When prom was over, the students headed for a fun night at "after prom". Awaiting them at the high school was human bowling and plenty of food to end a perfect night.

Stairway to Heaven

The students at CHS took part in a most heavenly evening at prom.

Alex Cole arrives at prom, takes off his jacket and heads for the dance floor to show off how his baseball hat creates a new look.

Free at Last!

The Martin Luther King Jr. famous line is how many seniors felt when they took the final walk off the football field. They all knew graduation day would come, but it was an exciting and sad day. As tradition commands, Valedictorian Jaret Copeman and Salutatorian Karen Eberly both gave speeches. The actual ceremony of handing out diplomas was an emotional time for all who attended. Matt Castillo walked across the field even after having a car accident that left him with a crushed pelvis.

Johnnie Parman's father accepted his diploma as a remembrance. Johnnie died in a car accident on his way home about two months before. After all the post graduation congratulatory parties, the seniors were driven to Chillicothe to enjoy a night watching movies and going to the YMCA. Jenelle Kormeman, class president, and her parents arranged for the seniors to be driven back to Ma & Pa's Kettle for an early morning breakfast. Each graduating senior was handed fifty dollars as a gift from "After Graduation" congratulating them on their success and to wish them luck. This is only one small step in the lives of the graduating seniors, but it will always be a memorable one.

Big Dreams

Seniors are finally free from school and are dreaming about big future plans.

Head of the class, Valedictorian Jaret Copeman, and Salutatorian Karen Eberly, are the first to walk to their seats.

Walking a bumpy road, literally and figuratively, Matt Castillo accepts his diploma. With a great deal of determination, Matt was able to participate in graduation.

Kenny Nalle walks with excitement to accept his diploma as Johnnie Parman's father waits to accept Johnnie's diploma.

Senior choir members perform a song during the ceremony on Sunday.

The grand finale for any graduation is the traditional toss of the mortarboards.

Waving to the crowd, Melissa Caldwell joins her classmates to walk onto the football field to await the presentation to begin.
